The body is under attack. An unknown virus has infiltrated and the Immune System activates to defend itself. But there is a problem: nobody knows for sure which players are infected and who is next. Lies, deceit, and deductions are vital.

Natural Killer is a game of hidden roles, deduction, and interaction where every decision can reveal the enemy... or protect him until the end.

Main Mechanic: Hidden Roles

1. Hidden Roles and Change of Sides:

Everyone starts as Immune System. If you receive the Virion card, you switch to the Virus side and your objective changes. You can infect other players by handing them the Virion.

The card that heals and allows you to return to the Immune System side exists.

4. Virion Deduction: In each game, only one of the seven virions enters, and the Immune System must deduce which one. Players draw Antigen cards in their Symptom zones. Each card corresponds to a specific combination of 4 Symptoms.

Observe what symptoms appear is the key to identifying the correct Virus!

2. Immune System Abilities:

Immune System cards allow you to steal, exchange, or discard other players' cards: see hands, force revealing symptoms, exchange cards, or hide cards.

5. Treatments: If the group deduces the correct Virus, applying the adequate Treatment neutralizes the Virion.

BUT BE CAREFUL! If you guess the wrong treatment, you automatically die (Apoptosis).

3. Contagion and Deceit: The Virus must pass the Virion to another player without being discovered. The player who receives the Virion immediately switches to the Virus side.

Immune System Objective: To win, they must correctly deduce the Virus and apply the correct Treatment, then eliminate or cure all infected players.

Virion Objective: They must manage to infect all players.
